CAROLINA FRATERNITIES

1964-1965

Fraternity Criteria

We consider the fraternity responsible for a positive contribution to the primary functions of the colleges and universities, and therefore under an obligation to encourage the most complete personal development of its members, intellectual, physical and social. Therefore we declare:

That the objectives and activities of the fraternity should be in accord with the aims and purposes of the institutions at which it has chapters;

That the primary loyalty and responsibility of a student in his relations with his institution are to the institution, and that the association of any group of students as a chapter of a fraternity involves the definite responsibilities of the group for the conduct of the individual;

That the fraternity should promote conduct consistent with good taste;

That the fraternity should create an atmosphere which will stimulate substantial intellectual progress and superior intellectual achievement;

That the fraternity should maintain sanitary, safe, and wholesome physical conditions in the chapter house;

That the fraternity should include principles of sound business practice both in chapter finances and in the business relations of its members.

AN INTRODUCTION
TO THE FRATERNITIES AND THEIR WAY OF LIFE AT THE UNIVERSITY OF NORTH CAROLINA PUBLISHED BY THE INTERFRATERNITY COUNCIL.

Paul F. Sharp

THE UNIVERSITY OF NORTH CAROLINA
AT
CHAPEL HILL

PAUL F. SHARP, Chancellor

December 12, 1964

Dear Freshmen:

Universities have many purposes in the lives of those who share their bounties. The fundamental purpose of the University and of all the enterprises that surround it is the enrichment and discipline of the mind. Life, however, is much more comprehensive, and the role of the University is therefore substantially larger.

Among the other interests of the University is the creation of a society on the campus that promotes character and personality growth among its members. Through the years, our fraternities have contributed materially to the development of leadership and personal responsibility. You will find that fraternities have high ideals and call upon their members with serious, personal and social demands. We believe that you will find enrichment and challenge in the maintenance of these standards and through the fellowship that accompanies fraternity life. At its best, a fraternity offers a rich and varied experience within the context of the University.

Sincerely yours,

Paul F. Sharp

OFFICE OF THE DEAN OF MEN

THE UNIVERSITY OF NORTH CAROLINA
CHAPEL HILL

17 December 1964

Dear Freshman:

To be able to write to you in connection with fraternity rush is a decided pleasure. You face a very important decision.

During the first semester you undoubtedly were able to gain an overview of fraternity life in general here at the University. Doubtless you already know that the system has a number of advantages to offer its members.

First, each fraternity is a self-governing unit which provides its members learning experiences in managing business and social affairs. Much important experience can be derived in this area.

Second, members of fraternities have an opportunity to become associated in groups that are compact in size. Many students feel a need for this type of association.

Third, fraternities provide social activities and outlets which can play a positive role in their members' lives. In this area excesses are possible, but only if the fraternity fails to live up to its published ideals.

Finally, many fraternities encourage academic excellence. As you may know, the first Greek letter society, Phi Beta Kappa, was and is dedicated to the highest in scholarly endeavor. All fraternities are embued with principles of scholarly achievement; some fraternities put these ideals into practice. I urge you to be most careful to determine if the particular fraternity you feel you will want to join is concerned about the first obligation of each student - his academic career.

On this campus it is not at all necessary for a man to become a Greek in order to make a significant and lasting contribution in the area of University leadership. Many of our leaders come from the fraternities; indeed, this is one of the major contributions which fraternity men make to the University. But, as I have said, membership in a Greek letter society is by no means a must.

My most important concern for you as you approach the day when you must decide whether to join any of our fraternities is that you do so with open eyes and with a real understanding of what is the real life of that particular organization and what are the ideals to which it is committed. This is most important, for when you join a fraternity, you will be making a conscious decision that you wish to be known throughout your University days and beyond as a member of a particular society. Choose one of which you will be proud and which you can make proud of you.

Sincerely,

William G. Long

INTER FRATERNITY COUNCIL
UNIVERSITY OF NORTH CAROLINA
CHAPEL HILL, NORTH CAROLINA

December 15, 1964

Dear Freshman,

On behalf of the fraternity system I would like to take this chance to welcome you to Carolina. As you well know by now North Carolina is a school based upon the highest ideals and steeped in the finest traditions, only one of which is its system of social fraternities which have existed on this campus since 1851. Looking back, I strongly feel that participation in a social fraternity has played a vital role in making my four years so enjoyable and meaningful.

The decision of whether or not to become a member of a social fraternity is one which must be made by each individual according to his own particular wants and desires. Having made the decision to join, I would like to give a few of my own personal reasons.

The fraternity offers you a chance to obtain perhaps a more well-rounded education than is otherwise possible. Each fraternity places primary emphasis on the academic performances of its members; a practice which is born out by the fact that the overall fraternity average is consistently above the all-men's average. Secondly, fraternities urge that all interested members perticipate in some form of extra-curriculars in which they might be interested.This interest is illustrated by the fact that seventy-five per cent of the student leaders are members of Greek organizations. Finally, and most importantly, the fraternity offers you a place to develop your personality and character through close association with men of high ideals and standards who together with you share the bond of brotherhood which only a fraternity can provide.

The Interfraternity Council urges that you read this brochure carefully in hopes that it may help you in making your decision. We are a way of life here at Carolina, and we are extremely proud of that fact. Think hard about your decision for it can be one of the most important and beneficial decisions that you will ever make.

Sincerely,

Ned Martin

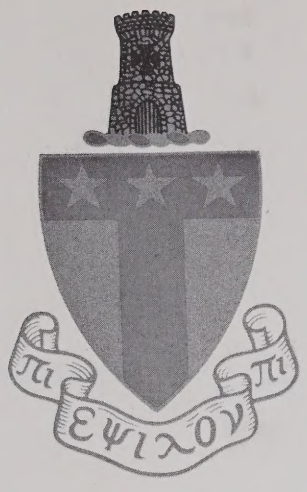
FRANK MARTIN
Rush Chairman



Alpha Tau Omega

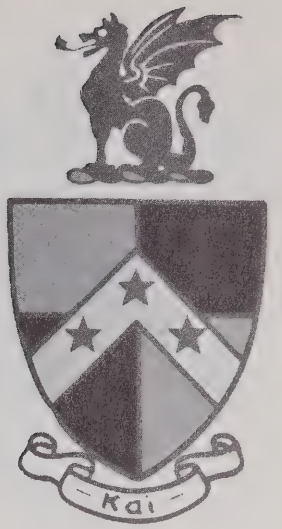
Dick Fleming, President
303 East Franklin Street

The national fraternity of Alpha Tau Omega was founded at Virginia Military Institute in 1865, and the local chapter was established fourteen years later in 1879.

Alpha Delta of Alpha Tau Omega carries on this proud tradition at Carolina. In intramurals, ATO has finished in the top five for the past five years. We also have brothers on the football, soccer, basketball, wrestling, swimming, baseball, lacrosse, and track teams. Several ATO's have been in the Freshman and Sophomore Honors Programs, and one is reading for Honors. Nine of last year's seniors are now attending graduate school. Highlights of our social program include football weekends, beach weekend, and a Pledge Weekend paid for by the brothers.

ATO has members in Phi Eta Sigma, the Old Well, Legislature, the Playmakers, the State Affairs Committee, the Beanbirds, and the Monogram Club. Ten brothers have been orientation counselors, eight are Morehead Scholars, and four are on the Men's Council. Our campus leaders are Chairman of the YMCA International Relations Committee, Co-Chairman of the UNC delegation to State Student Legislature, Treasurer of the UP, Secretary of Germans, Secretary of the IFC, Scribe of the Men's Council, and President of the Sophomore Class.

More than a sum of these things, ATO has come to mean a sincere, well-rounded group of men working together toward common goals, with a sense of loyalty, of responsibility and warm friendship, yet never sacrificing their individuality. It is our hope that you as Freshmen will receive our welcome during rush, and then perhaps relive these memories, sharing our experiences as brothers in ATO.



Beta Theta Pi

Tony Miller, President
114 South Columbia Street

Through combined effort and cooperation in many fields, the members of Beta Theta Pi have witnessed the purpose of a fraternity produce prolific results. This purpose, unity of action for the common academic and social betterment of each member, is the hub around which all fraternal activity should revolve. This wheel of action has been revolving with rapidity at the Beta House, and, as you will note, the effects have been snowballing.

The success of the Alumni Committee has produced the means for complete redecoration of the interior: walls replastered and painted, completely new furniture for the entire main floor, the trophy room transformed into a pine-panelled card room, new stair cases constructed for all three flights. This has been merely the beginning, for plans have now been made for paving our 30-car parking lot which occupies one-third of the back yard. Also to be completed before second semester is the recarpeting of the entire main floor.

The Beta Bar has been completed. This modern structure, entirely built by the members, occupies 3000 square feet and is unique in that it stands apart from the House at a distance of 100 feet, thus providing us the opportunity to have simultaneous social functions at different levels for varying interests.

To turn from physical innovations, a new speaker-visitation program has been launched. Thus far we have had as our guests: Dr. William Goodykoontz, who spoke on religion, morals, and society-induced guilt complexes; Dean William Long, who discussed the Administrative role in life at Carolina; and Dr. Kenneth Reckford, our faculty advisor, who not only enlightened us with his intellect, but also provided refreshments —a case of delicious French wine.

It is quite apparent, isn't it? The Beta House has recently witnessed beneficial innovations as results of the ability to work together as a unit. This, after all, is the purpose of fraternal life.

Chi Phi

Jim Riley, President
300 South Columbia Street

We begin another great year in the White House on the Hill! In our house is experienced the lasting friendships, the high ideals, the good times, the tradition, and the spirit of Chi Phi. We consider our house one of the most diversified on campus.

The Chi Phi House is located across the street from Whitehead Dormitory and the Naval Armory. The house has been recently renovated, including a completely new living room. It has one of the most convenient locations on campus. It is the closest fraternity house to the football stadium, library, and Pine Room, as well as Woolen Gym and it is also near the center of campus and the "Y" Court.

A well-known tradition of Chi Phi has been to work hard when we work and really party when we party. When it comes to fun, Chi Phi is by no means conservative.

Chi Phi doesn't have fun at the expense of scholarship. One of the principle goals of Chi Phi is towards good scholarship as well as good leadership. To exemplify this, last year our all-brother average was 2.55 and many Chi Phis hold positions of campus leadership.

Intramurals—well, we haven't won any trophies lately, but participation in our house is exceptionally high. Intramurals contribute greatly to the brotherhood.

Chi Phi, as the oldest of the national, social Greek letter fraternities, welcomes all prospective pledges and wishes them all well in Carolina's new deferred rush.

Chi Psi

Gene Barrier, President
321 West Cameron Avenue

Chi Psi is a unique fraternity on this campus. With brothers from 18 states and one territory, Chi Psi emphasizes the diversity of its membership, while at the same time being characterized by the closeness and unity of the brotherhood. Chi Psi stresses individualism, and achieves a stronger fraternity through this.

Last year, Chi Psi won the Robert House Award for the best fraternity on campus. The Pledge class won Best Pledge Class Award and captured the Scholarship Award for the second year in a row. The entire brotherhood won the Scholarship Award for the fall semester. We finished second in intramurals while brothers won varsity letters in soccer, wrestling, track and baseball.

Chi Psi brothers are leading the campus politically. Chi Psi boasts this year the President of the Student Body, the Chairman of the Men's Council, the Co-editor and Associate Editor of the Daily Tar Heel, the President of State Student Legislature, the Chairman of the SSL Interim Committee, the President of Phi Beta Kappa, the head cheerleader, the Chairman of the Honor System Commission, the Chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, the Chairman of the Judicial Committee, four members of Legislature, a national supervisor of NSA, and the chairman of CCUN, to name a few.

But Chi Psi's leadership does not end this year. Last year's losing Presidential candidate was a Chi Psi also and will probably run again this year. The Chairman of Orientation for 1965 is a Chi Psi sophomore. All our legislators, including the committee chairmen, are underclassmen. The vice-chairman of the Student Party and three members of its executive committee are Chi Psi juniors and sophomores.

Socially Chi Psi is one of the liveliest houses on campus. We have our combo parties frequently but are not limited by them. Beach parties, trips to the mountains, vacation jaunts to New York and Washington, are all common. The Lodge is one of the most spacious houses on campus with ample room for all kinds of parties.

Chi Psi invites you to come and visit us, see the Lodge and meet the brotherhood. We think you'll like it.

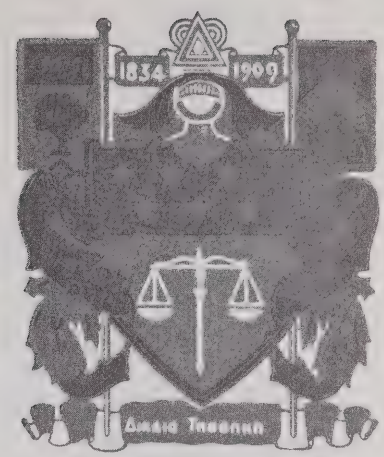
Delta Kappa Epsilon

Henry Morgan, President
132 South Columbia Street

Delta Kappa Epsilon, founded in April, 1856 as the first fraternity in the state of North Carolina, has maintained a long heritage of leadership at the University of North Carolina. Notable alumni include Vermont Royster, editor of the Wall Street Journal, and Gordon Gray, former Secretary of the Army. The tradition has been continued as two members of the chapter were selected for Frank Porter Graham Awards in June, 1964 (given to the four outstanding members of the senior class each year).

The chapter ranks academically in the top third of the fraternities at Chapel Hill. Two members graduated Phi Beta Kappa in 1964, one becoming the third student in the history of the University to graduate with highest honors in English. Two members of the pledge class were taken into Phi Eta Sigma and one was elected president. There are also fourteen members of the chapter who have won letters for varsity sports, including the co-captains of two freshmen and one varsity sport. At the conclusion of the 1964 intramural season, the Deke House retired the white trophy after winning the league in four consecutive seasons.

Current leadership has been demonstrated on the part of Delta Kappa Epsilon in extra-curricular activities. Major office holders include the Chairmen of the Elections Board, the Campus Chest, the Symposium Interim Committee, the President of Phi Eta Sigma, and the Treasurer of the Germans Club. This theme of leadership is reinforced by the awards that Beta Chapter has accumulated during the past three years. They include the R. B. House award as the outstanding fraternity in Chapel Hill and the "Lions" trophy, symbolic of the outstanding chapter of Delta Kappa Epsilon in the United States and Canada.



Delta Upsilon

Franklin Adkinson, President
407 East Rosemary Street

Delta Upsilon Fraternity at North Carolina has been characterized by dynamic growth and unusual achievement in its eleven years in the university community.

Since 1961 Delta Upsilon has never failed to capture one of the top four places in competition for the coveted "Most Outstanding Fraternity" award. Twice since 1961 pledge classes of Delta Upsilon have won first place in competition for the "Outstanding Pledge Class" award. Then in 1963 the Board of Directors of Delta Upsilon conferred on the North Carolina Chapter its "Directors' Award for Chapter Excellence"—first place among our 83 chapters.

Scholarship, intramural participation, and campus extracurriculars have not found Delta Upsilon lacking. For the 1963-1964 academic year, DU outranked all other Carolina social fraternities in scholarship. In intramural athletics Delta U was once again a top contender, finishing fourth in 1963-1964. And we are providing a substantial share of campus leadership: the President of Graham Memorial, a Co-editor of the Tar Heel, Chairman of the Publications Board, and leaders and participants in almost every conceivable campus organization.

We are proud of our record for we feel that it points out dramatically the dynamic accomplishments of a young chapter with spirit and enthusiasm. But more importantly we feel that our group achievements point inwardly to underlying characteristics which make our chapter unique.

We have built our fraternity around the development of the individual —one who will accept a responsible citizenship in his social and academic communities. The goals we have chosen and the programs we use to implement them are mature and constructive. They center around the belief that the Fraternity must be a part of the man if the man is to be a part of the Fraternity. With this philosophy Delta Upsilon has advanced and will continue to thrive.

Kappa Alpha

Ray Taylor, President
110 West Cameron Avenue

The Kappa Alpha House, haven for Southern Gentlemen from both sides of the Mason-Dixon line, maintains desirable balance between extra-curricular activities and academics.

The end of the football season, with its combos in the court after the games and at the house that night, does not close the Kappa Alpha fall social calendar. Germans and the Christmas party and spontaneous beer parties keep things from slowing down before Christmas. The January 19th Convivium is the celebration of Robert E. Lee's birthday. Plans for it this year include an invitation to J. Edgar Hoover, a brother of the order, to be our guest speaker. Plans are almost complete for our Pledge Weekend and famous Old South. This year we will converge on Myrtle Beach in the spring, with other K.A. Chapters, for what promises to be the best Old South in recent memory. We are proud of our sponsor this year. She was crowned homecoming queen and is a member of the Yack beauty court.

When it comes to athletics, the K.A.'s are no laggards. We furnish members for the varsity football, baseball, and swimming teams. We also have sophomores who are outstanding in the freshman golf, tennis, soccer, track, and lacrosse teams. Intramurally, we tied for second place in our football league and reached the quarter finals in volleyball. In Grail Murals we are currently advancing toward the finals in basketball.

Even amid this swirl of activity, K.A.'s majoring in every field, remember the books. Due to the current change in the scrolling habits of the house, we have an academic average well above the over-all men's average. Also, we recently received a Scholarship Improvement Citation from our National.

Many K.A.'s were orientation counselors and several are on the Attorney General's Staff. One is head of the Campus Chest carnival, one on the consolidated university council, one on the Arnold Air Society, one head of the Communications Committee, one on the G. M. publication committee, one on the Election Board, and two on the Student Legislature. A K.A. is IFC treasurer and another is on the court.

Balance is the key to a successful fraternity, and we feel we have attained it.

Kappa Sigma

Neil Thomas, President
204 West Cameron Avenue

Returning to practically a new house this fall, we had our work cut out. After an extensive fire last April, Kappa Sigma made sweeping changes in the house which include a new large party room, new dining and chapter rooms, and all new furniture. The estimated plan of completion is the end of the semester.

Academically the Kappa Sigs rank in the top half of the fraternities and have one member in Phi Eta Sigma. Three other brothers are in the military honorary, Scabbard and Blade, while one of the three is a captain in the Navy ROTC.

Having completed a good season intramurally in football and volleyball, making it to the playoffs in both, we are looking forward to the basketball playoffs. With four boys on the first string football team, one of whom was the leading pass receiver in the ACC and another on the ACC scholarship team, we can also boast of starters on the wrestling and soccer teams.

Socially, fall was a tremendous success with Little Fraternity Court parties after each home game and numerous other parties of varying kinds throughout the year, which included seven combo parties, one luau, and several cocktail parties.

On campus Kappa Sig can boast of the Editor of the Yackety Yack, the chairmen of the IFC Entertainment and Publicity Committees, two student legislators (one of whom his the UP floor leader), members of the Attorney General's Staff and Orientation Committee, and many others.

Stressing academics to our pledges we offer the scholastic award to the pledge with the highest average. In pledge training we attempt to instill in the pledge a sense of fraternal relationships.

Lambda Chi Alpha

Buddy Muse, President
229 East Franklin Street

Lambda Chi Alpha Fraternity was founded nationally at Boston University on November 2, 1909. UNC joined the growing Lambda Chi family when it founded the Gamma Nu Chapter in 1926. Although one of the younger national fraternities, it ranks third in total membership with 88,000 and has chapters on 155 campuses, proof of the vitality and energy of Lambda Chi Alpha.

While we believe that social life is an integral part of your education at Carolina, we also place strong emphasis on academic achievement. This was proven when the active body of Lambda Chi placed third academically among all fraternities at UNC during the last semester. The average attained was considerably higher than that of the dormitories. A study hall is kept open five days a week for the use of brothers and pledges, and a course evaluation program was inaugurated this year which is of great help when considering prospective courses. A quiz file is also maintained as a valuable study aid.

Athletics play an important part in the life of a Lambda Chi, and our intramural teams have claimed more than their share of victories. Lambda Chi's have excelled in varsity competition with members of the following teams: basketball, football, track (three members), wrestling, and swimming. Our intramural teams have reached the fraternity playoffs in all major sports this year.

Lambda Chi's also play an important role in campus organization as witnessed by forty per cent of the active body serving as orientation counselors this semester. We have representatives in almost every phase of student government and campus affairs.

As mentioned before, we of Lambda Chi Alpha consider social life of utmost importance in the development of a well-rounded student. We are fortunate in having separate facilities for dances, parties, etc., adjoining our main house, facilities which are put to good use through our excellent social program.

Phi Delta Theta

Dick Jonas, President
304 South Columbia Street

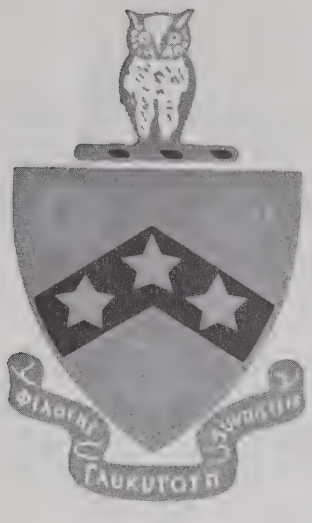
Since Phi Delta Theta's founding at the University of North Carolina, it has led in academics. Of the twenty-five newly initiated brothers, thirteen were Morehead Scholars, and there are twenty-two altogether in the house. Last year Phi Delta Theta placed in the top five in academics with all the graduating active brothers entering graduate school or the armed forces with a commission. Currently there are seven Phi Delts in the U.N.C. Medical School, seven in the U.N.C. Law School, and in addition brothers are in such schools as Harvard Law, Duke Law, Columbia Business, and Harvard Business.

Athletics play an important part in Phi Delta Theta's activities. Many of the brothers participate in intercollegiate athletics. In addition to having the captains of the varsity tennis, soccer, and swimming teams, there are two All-American Swimmers, four varsity football players, two varsity tennis players, two varsity baseball players, one varsity wrestler, and one varsity lacrosse player.

Next to rush, intramurals are the biggest group activity in the fraternity. This year's incumbent football champs, led by three 1963 All-Campus All-Stars, extended their win record to twenty games, scoring 133 points in their last three games. The members of last year's White Fraternity basketball champs are working right into this year's Blue basketball squad. The incumbent handball champs have begun practice with many members of last year's team, and the House's wrestling team placed three men in finals matches this year. Probably the most important thing about intramurals is that it gives each brother a chance to participate in athletics. The House fielded two football teams, two handball teams, and will send out four basketball teams. This unifies the group and provides much of the real college spirit that is sometimes missed in a big university.

In extracurriculars the House's membership includes the senior class president, the Attorney General, The German's Club President, the Orientation Chairman, the Freshman Camp Chairman, the University party Chairman, and the Junior Class Vice President.

The Phi Delts are well rounded. Last year two brothers put on the badge of the Order of Old Bean Birds, but at the same time brothers were initiated in Phi Beta Kappa, the Order of the Golden Fleece, and the Order of the Grail.



Phi Gamma Delta

Bill Nelson, President
108 West Cameron Avenue

Phi Gamma Delta has members in almost every phase of academic and campus activities, ranging from Phi Beta Kappa to Grail Mural Basketball Champions.

Members of Epsilon Chapter have always been outstanding contributors to both varsity and intramural athletics, becoming one of the two fraternities to ever retire an Intramural Championship trophy. Our continued participation in the Carolina athletic program is evidenced by having members of the football team, the wrestling and golf teams. One of our brothers is a cheerleader.

Scholarship is perhaps the most important phase of every college student's life, and this realization is reflected in the fact that several brothers of Epsilon Chapter are at Carolina on academic scholarships (Morehead, Naval), and three are members of Phi Eta Sigma, two of Beta Gamma Sigma.

Every brother in our house participates in one form or another in some campus activity. Among these include: Cabinet positions, Attorney General Staff, Orientation Committee, Campus Chest, YRC, YDC, Carnival Committee, IFC Court, Order of the Old Bean Birds, YMCA, NROTC Drill Team, Campus Affairs, University Party, and Orientation Counselors.

These are some of the facts and figures about Phi Gamma Delta, but not all of them. The most important statistics are involved in elements of brotherhood. The one element which marks the difference between dorm and fraternity life is the mixture of friendship and brotherhood which cannot be measured in facts and figures, but is the most rewarding statistic of all.

Phi Kappa Sigma

Rick Lyons, President
203 West Cameron Avenue

Lambda Chapter of Phi Kappa Sigma, being one of the oldest social fraternities at U. N. C., continued this year in upholding the ideals and standards established at our founding over 108 years ago.

As an example of our concern with academic accomplishments, we were awarded the I.F.C. Scholarship Improvement Trophy in the spring of 1964, our brotherhood average third on the campus.

Also we won the Grail Mural-All Sports Jamboree and finished second in intramural volleyball and basketball, placing sixth in the overall Blue Division. This year we are expecting to finish much higher, having already placed teams in the playoffs of football and volleyball. In addition, we have men in varsity football, basketball, soccer, and swimming.

Maintaining a well-rounded social program, we kicked off the year with our traditional Coed Open House which approximately three hundred incoming girls attended. We sponsored two coeds who were selected to the Yack Beauty Court and the Beat Dook Parade Court. Our partying is not limited to combos alone, but is mixed with costume parties, cabin parties, cocktail parties, and beach weekend. This Christmas we have a needy family to give presents to.

Our interest in all-campus extra-curriculars is easily seen. One of our brotherhood is vice-chairman of the University Party and one was unanimously selected as its nominee for the Junior class President. The well-known "'Shadows" combo is composed of Phi Kaps. Among other offices and honors held by members of our fraternity are: Secretary of the C.C.C., Sec. of Phi Eta Sigma, Attorney General's staff members, and an All-Campus Basketball team member.

Pi Kappa Alpha

Don Sayers, President
106 Fraternity Court

Pi Kappa Alpha is a nation-wide, Greek letter fraternity that is dedicated to the social, scholastic, and athletic ideals that make up a well-rounded college man and that of a successful adult.

We at Tau Chapter are always striving to reach those ideals and those goals. Our membership is composed of men from South Carolina to New Jersey and is a harmonious blending of all kinds of abilities and personalities. Pi Kappa Alpha is represented in intercollegiate competition by members on the football, swimming, and debate teams. In addition to this, PiKA's always ranked high in intramural. One of our brothers has already won the heavyweight wrestling title.

Scholastically, PiKA ranks high in its membership with Morehead scholars, members of Phi Eta Sigma, and several candidates for Phi Beta Kappa. Many of our brothers are engaged in pre-law, pre-med, or pre-dental work. But more than this, Pi Kappa Alpha uses her talents for the good of the campus. The annual Beat Dook Parade, which is the largest parade in Chapel Hill, is arranged and sponsored by Tau Chapter. Last year over eighty per cent of our pledge class were on freshmen committees.

But all of these things are really subordinate to the real accomplishment of PiKA—that is, its spirit of brotherhood and friendship which is its trademark. We are always proud of our members for participation in all these fields, but always our prime goal in fraternity life is to provide a warm atmosphere of friendship, cordiality, and good times. We at Tau Chapter believe we have found that goal.

Pi Kappa Phi

John Wainio, Pesident
206 West Cameron Avenue

Pi Kappa Phi fraternity was one of the first fraternities on the Carolina campus. Founded in 1904 at the College of Charleston, Charleston, South Carolina, Pi Kappa Phi came to Carolina in 1914. In the years that followed its chartering at Carolina, Kappa chapter became a campus leader, and its members held numerous campus offices and were active on many athletic teams. During the twenties and thirties, Kappa produced young men who later rose to fame in the business and literary world, men such as Tar Heel literary giant Thomas Wolfe, and the present governor of North Carolina, Dan K. Moore. Kappa was forced off campus in the late thirities by the depression, but was reactivated in 1948, and has grown in size and stature on campus since that time.

Though not a large house, Kappa has excelled in campus athletics and scholarships. Last year, Kappa was fifth among twenty six fraternities in the final standings for the Walter Rabb trophy for participation in campus athletics, and in 1962 and 1963, Kappa received a master chapter award as an outstanding chapter of Pi Kappa Phi fraternity.

At the present time, Kappa is in the process of raising money for a new house. Kappa has a membership of about fifty brothers and pledges. The chapter is a close knit group, and each member is urged to strive in academics and athletics toward a common goal. Kappa has long been known as the friendliest house on campus, and it is this spirit of friendship combined with the desire for cooperation and understanding that makes Kappa a chapter which can contribute not only to campus affairs but can produce individuals who are well rounded athletically, academically, and socially.

Pi Lambda Phi

Kenny Mann, President
107 Fraternity Court

Pi Lambda Phi Fraternity is located at 107 Franternity Court, the center of fraternity activity on campus, and just a strone's throw away from classes and the downtown Chapel Hill area.

This year at Pi Lambda Phi has been a great one. The entire house has been repainted inside and out, and two social rooms have been remodeled or panelled. Improvements will continue through next summer through the aid of Pi Lam's National offices and alumni. Academically, our overall average for this semester has been estimated at 2.45, and several of our brothers will make the Dean's List. On campus, we have members who are in leadership positions in Student Government, the Di-Phi Senate, the Daily Tar Heel, NROTC, WUNC-FM, State Student Legislature, and the Pharmacy Senate. Athletically, Pi Lam fields teams in every sport, from wrestling to ping-pong, and always competes successfully.

Socially, Pi Lam has long been known for its excellent parties. Among the highlights of our fall social program was a conclave-party with our brother chapters from Roanoke College, William and Mary, and the University of Florida. Another such weekend is planned for the Spring, this one to be held at the University of Florida. Also coming in the Spring are our traditional Pledge Weekend, Parent-Alumni Weekend, and Beach Weekend, among many others.

Pi Lam also realizes that a fraternity owes a debt to the community, and has always taken part in many civic activities. For this year's project, the brotherhood conducted a clothes drive for the needy members of the Chapel Hill area.

Finally, Pi Lambda Phi is one of the few fraternities on campus which is non-sectarian, a fact of which we are justly proud. Our brotherhood is composed of boys from all religious faiths and backgrounds; in short, to Pi Lams, brotherhood is not just a word, but a feeling.

St. Anthony Hall

Frank Minard, House Manager
207 Pittsboro Street

Delta Psi, or St. Anthony Hall, was chartered at the University of North Carolina in 1854. With the confusion of the War Between the States, the Hall disbanded to aid the Confederate cause, and was re-established in 1926. Always devoted to brotherhood, the pursuit of literary interest, and scholastic excellence, the Hall concentrates on taking an active part in University life.

As evidenced by its scholastic ranking, the Hall stresses academic as well as intellectual development. Membership in honor societies is highly valued.

Brothers participate in many campus activities, including the Fine Arts Festival, Carolina Forum, Symposium, YMCA, Writer in Residence and Academic Affairs Committees, as well as the Daily Tar Heel and the Carolina Quarterly. Literary achievement has formed a fundamental basis of the Fraternity since its formation.

Often at the Brother-Pledge meetings a faculty member is invited to discuss, answer questions, or lecture on a subject of current interest.

In athletics, brothers participate in a number of minor varsity sports including swimming, soccer, wrestling, and cross country. The Hall has taken an avid interest in Intramural sports and has finished first or second in intramural soccer for more than a decade.

St. Anthony Hall is not a large fraternity. Its size is limited by its concept of the individual and the relation of oneself to others in a collegiate environment.

The policy at St. Anthony Hall of dealing with pledges as mature and intelligent men promotes mutual respect and ensures a pleasant and productive period of indoctrination into the Fraternity.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon

Jim Light, President
112 Fraternity Court

Sigma Alpha Epsilon has always been considered one of the finest national fraternities throughout the country, and the chapter at U.N.C. is no exception. Since its founding in 1857 it has been thought of as one of the leading fraternities on this campus. Its alumni all over North Carolina and the South have contributed greatly of their service to both their respective states and to the University—John Motley Morehead being perhaps the most outstanding example.

The present chapter is perhaps one of the best ever, ranking high in practically every aspect of life here at Carolina. It consistently finishes amoung the top few fraternities in academic averages, compiling a 2.24 average last year. In intramurals it is always strong, finishing no lower than third over the past seven years. Perhaps the most outstanding example of the quality of the fraternity, however, is in the contributions which its members have made to the ranks of student leaders. Included in the present membership are the Treasurer of the Student Body, the President of the Interfraternity Council, the Assistant Attorney General, two members of the IFC Court, the Rush Chairman of the IFC, chairmen and members of various student government committees, and members of both the Order of the Golden Fleece and the Order of the Grail.

One of the strongest points to the credit of the fraternity, moreover, is the strength of its sophomore class which was considered one of the best pledge classes in the history of the house. These twenty-two young men together with the rest of the chapter welcome you to Carolina and look forward to seeing you during rush.

Sigma Chi

Jim Cobb, President
102 Fraternity Court

The Alpha Taus of Sigma Chi just celebrated their 75th Anniversary with festivities at the Holiday Inn in Durham. Founded at UNC in 1889, Alpha Tau has steadly grown into a well-rounded fraternal organization.

Sigma Chi is a social fraternity, the highlight of its social season being the annual Sweetheart Ball held late each Spring. In past years such sites as Virginia Beach, Charleston, Myrtle Beach, and Nags Head have been chosen for this beach weekend. Other outstanding social events include Germans, mixers, Christmas party, costume party and, of course, football weekends.

Another annual event cherished by everyone—especially coeds—is the Sigma Chi Derby held each Spring in Kenan Stadium. The Derby is a contest between sororities, the highlight being the selection of Miss Modern Venus. The Derby has been a great success in the past, usually drawing over a thousand students.

Sigma Chi's also participate in various campus activities. One brother is a member of the current golf team while another is a varsity tennis player. Intramurals have always been a favorite at the Sigma Chi house with nearly everyone participating in some form of intramural sports.

Other brothers have served in such student activities as the Campus Chest, I.F.C., University Party and Germans Club. Sigma Chi has also been represented in various other Greek-dominated social organizations.

Looking back on 1964, the year seems to have been a great success and everyone at Alpha Tau hopes that 1965 will be the most progressive and enjoyable year in our history.

Sigma Nu

Warren Price, President
109 Fraternity Court

From all indications this is going to be another banner year for the Psi Chapter of Sigma Nu. As in the past the brotherhood has been active not only socially, but also in campus affairs, intercollegiate sports, and intramurals.

This year our President is the head of the enlarged and more powerful IFC Court, and we have another brother sitting on the court. The Student Legislature representative from Men's District III is also a Sigma Nu, as are the fraternity section co-editors and the business manager of the Yack.

This year's homecoming display won first prize in the Fraternity Division, and one of the honors of which we are most proud is that Sigma Nu's Sweetheart was chosen Queen of the "Beat Dook Parade."

The brotherhood has excelled in sports again this year. Last year's President and three-time All-American won a gold medal in the Olympics while setting a new world record in the 200 meter backstroke. He is presently traveling in the Far East, but we all look forward to his return for the Spring Semester. In addition, three brothers will be returning lettermen on the lacrosse team, one of whom is being tabbed as a pre-season All-American. We also have Sigma Nu's on both the football and swimming teams.

We are doing extremely well in intramurals this year also. We won the track meet, finished high in both volleyball and football, and are favorites to win the Grail Mural and basketball championships again.

Sigma Phi Epsilon

Hugh Bryan, President
207 West Cameron Avenue

Sigma Phi Epsilon is a broad training ground for leadership and group participation. This serves for a more purposeful college life. Sig Ep is the second largest national fraternity in the United States. We have over 70,000 members and chapters in 45 states.

The local chapter has 36 Brothers and 10 pledges at present. We, of course, are not the largest fraternity on campus. It is our belief that the strength of a fraternity depends upon a close understanding between individuals which can only be accomplished by building a small homogeneous group of carefully selected men.

As we see it, there are three criteria for judging a fraternity: scholarship, social, and campus achievements. We have a 2.221 quality point average which is above the all-men's average. To insure ourselves of keeping a high scholastic standing among the fraternities on campus, we enforce quiet hours, study halls, and maintain a complete quiz file with nearly 4,000 quizzes dating back to 1958.

The social aspect of the fraternity is important. We hold some of the finest affairs on campus, and honestly believe we have more fun than anyone else. Our social chairman has a great calendar lined up for the spring, but the real reason we have so much fun is because we have a congenial and close-knit group of men who enjoy being with their fraternity brothers and guests.

Lastly, the achievements in college life will show quite clearly the type of men we are and what can be expected of us later. We believe we have a pretty good name in this phase. There are 32 Sig Eps in 21 different campus activities. This year we stand fifth among all fraternities in intramural sports.

There are some real good fraternities on campus. Sigma Phi Epsilon is one of them. When you come to our house during rush, you will find a group of men genuinely interested in you as prospective members in our fraternity and as a possible future link in the circle of our brotherhood.

Tau Epsilon Phi

Dave Robbins, President
216 East Rosemary Street

Once again the Omega TEP's are continuing on their winning ways of previous years. So far this year we have won the campus-wide Co-Rec Carnival for the third straight year, run away with the Ugly Man On Campus (UMOC) contest, retiring the trophy and our float was among the best in the Beat Dook Parade.

But this is just the beginning. With out two candidates for Phi Beta Kappa and ten past members of the dean's team, we are out to improve our scholastic ranking of number 6 out of the 23 fraternities. We have constantly been ranked in the top 8 for the past several years, and we feel that this is our year to get back to number one.

Speaking of number one, the 50 boys affiliated with TEP last year won for the second time in the past three years the "Best TEP chapter in the Nation" award. This award, which is given to the chapter showing the best overall performance, was won for our non-academic achievements as well as for our fine academic standing.

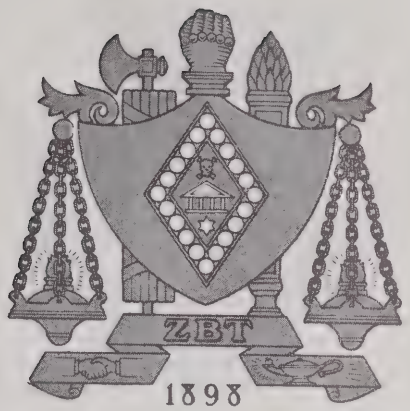
Our social life last year was highlighted by a great three day weekend in the spring and by a swingin' beach weekend that complemented our other five parties during the spring. This fall a sorority mixer, two cabin parties, and the parties have all been overwhelming successes. We're all looking forward to another fabulous Houseparty this spring.

Wherever one looks on campus, he will find a TEP in some significant post. In varsity athletics there is a TEP on the basketball team, five TEP's practically dominate the track team, and our man on the baseball team looks as if he will certainly be a star. Along with athletics we can boast about our outstanding member of the cheerleading squad.

Not only is our participation in varsity athletics excellent, but we have performed very well in intramurals. Last year we placed well up in the top ten in both white and blue leagues, and this year we expect our basketball team to go all the way in the blue league.

To mention only a few other significant positions that the TEP's occupy, we have the vice-president and treasurer of Hillel, the co-editor of the sports section of the Yackey Yack, the chairman of the Mock Political Convention held last year, and numerous committee chairmen.

With these accomplishments and many more, we are again out to prove that TEP's are TOPS!



Zeta Beta Tau

Wally Loewenbaum, President
240 Finley Golf Course Road

Last December, the brothers of Zeta Beta Tau moved from Rosemary Street to our new house located at the New Fraternity Court on Finley Golf Course Road. Though the "pioneers" of this plush new development, we are eagerly anticipating the construction of several other fraternity and sorority houses this summer. We not only moved our physical plant, but our fine tradition of University participation.

One of our proudest accomplishments is our perenially high academic standing. Consistently in the top three, last semester we maintained our superlative record and number 1 ranking by attaining an average of 2.8. The brothers of Zeta Beta Tau never lose sight of the primary reason for being at college—an education.

Culturally, we have a varied program. The cornerstone of it is the monthly discussion of a topical subject led by distinguished faculty members. Also, included during the years are several films of a certain educational interest.

Socially, we are noted for our excellent parties in our spacious party room and adjacent garden areas. This year, we have had such groups as the Delcardo's, the Embers, and the Monza's playing on the many big football weekends. The spring program is highlighted by our renowned Anniversary Week-end. For these and other parties we will have such groups as the Fabulous Five, Embers and the Rocking Rythmns to entertain us.

Athletically, ZBT has always been a vigorous competitor. We won the 1963-64 Co-rec Carnival; participate in basketball, football, handball, softball and other intramurals. We have members representing U.N.C. on the soccer, tennis, and golf teams.

The individual ability of the brothers of Zeta Beta Tau is best illustrated by the many positions of responsibility which they hold on campus. To name just a few, they are: Assistant to the President of the student body; chairman of the Carolina Forum; Treasurer of the Carolina Forum; Treasurer of the Y.M.C.A.; Secretary of the Y.M.C.A.; Chairman of the Carolina Political Union; member of the Graham Memorial Board of Directors, the Attorney General's Staff, and so on.

Thus, one can see that in all fields of endeavor the brothers of ZBT have created a distinctive place for themselves in the life of this great university.

Zeta Psi

Bruce Downey, President
200 West Columbia Avenue

The Zeta Psi house at Carolina has members involved in campus affairs, as do all fraternities, we have two members of the interfraternity court and several members of the Carolina Forum. The vice-president of the German's Club is a Zete, as is the chairman of the IFC Affairs Committee. We have members of the varsity football, track, and lacrosse teams. However, these are individual honors and not the reason Zeta Psi is a good fraternity.

The Zete House has always had the greatest parties on campus and continues to do so. But, this too is not the reason the Zete House is a good fraternity.

The reason the members of the Zete House have a feeling of pride in our house is something entirely different. This is the hardest aspect of the house to explain but the most important.

Zetes come from near and far, from Florida and Pennsylvania and Texas. But with all our differences, all our individuality, there is still a real feeling of brotherhood: A feeling that you have friends you can have fun with, friends you can confide in, friends on which you can rely. This is what it means to be a Zete. Not just to wear a pin, or have a place to party—but to be among friends.

Since the beginning, whenever men have come together seeking a common bond there have I been.

My membership is legion, from the humble home and the stately mansion, from the rolling farms and the noisy factories, from the East, West, North and South have my followers come.

They who understand my meaning have followed many paths. But these paths have all lead to the goal of righteousness and brotherhood.

Their reward has been the inspection of their youth; the driving power of their manhood; the memories of their maturity. They have fought the good fight. And of these, my sons, I am justly proud.

Who I am, my name is fraternity. And because I have given man that which he craves, I shall endure. My sons shall neither falter nor fail, they shall add lustre to my name.
